“ Gail was the "total package" in so many ways,intelligent, loving, beautiful , athletic, caring, and a very giving person, with strong spirit that could light up a room.
I spent many hours talking with Gail during the over a year we were together, traveling with her, going on long bike rides and walks with her, and personally witnessed the care she gave to both her parents in their later years as well as the deep love she had for her son Paul. I am thankful for the all too short time our lives & paths crossed. Life is all too fleeting.
After almost a year of her passing, I am just now learning of her death and am in shock, and so sad as this world has lost a beautiful human being. In the last conversation I had with Gail, she indicated that she had cancer, but I thought that it was in remission and that she had won the battle with it.
So sad, so very sad. My heartfelt condolences .

“ Dear Family,
Saddened to learn of Gail's passing. I am so thankful I was able to see her from time to time when I was in North Carolina. She was always so kind and encouraging when it came to my ministry. You all will be in our prayers.

“ The heart is never ready, the time is never right to say goodbye. Gail was glamorous, stylish, crafty, beautiful inside and out, a caregiver, hardheaded like her Dad, feisty and spirited like her Mother, courageous, a Christian true to her Lord and a mentor. Gail fought a hard fight but she didn't battle alone. She had Paul, her loyal devoted son, by her side every step of the way. Gail was a loving cousin and niece. A best friend. Her memory will be cherished.

May God rest her soul and her pain.

*We love you,

“ We never got the privilege to meet Gail. We have met her son, Paul through my family friend Jennifer Paxton, growing to love him dearly. She was a loving mother, accomplished teacher, writer and well loved by her community.

She is now with her heavenly father and no more suffering.

*Lovingly,

“ I never had the pleasure of really knowing Gail. I remember I met her at Queens in Salisbury where she sold some wreaths and things. She seemed like such a sweet person. I know more of her as she was my Sister in Christ's friend Regina Faggart . I lift Prayers for her Son Paul and all of her many friends that God will give peace to their hearts. May you Rest In Peace Gail . 🙏🙏🙏 you are Home with our Father
