“ I will never forget the time Jamie came to visit us at the beach and the girls said our goodbyes to him as we (all the girls) were going out to party. When we came in late that night we did not realize he had decided to spend the night and was sleeping on the couch and boy did he get an earful of girl talk. The next morning when we realized he was still there we all just cracked up when we realized he had heard every word we said. I loved you dearly. One of my favorite memories ever.
