“ I realized that Kevin met his Master on June 14th which is also flag day. During Kevin's years in the Marines he was proud to be an American It's only appropriate that a man who loved his county departed this worldly life the day we American's should have displayed the flag for being proud of this country, and even though at the time no one knew a specific reason in Salisbury for waving the flag other than to support our flag and what it stands for, but they were also waving it for Kevin. I'm sure my buddy crossed into Heaven as Jesus went to prepare a place for him, and on the 14th he came for Kevin and welcomed him home.
