“Teresa, Harriet, and Jane may these verses make this trip in life peaceful for you and yours. God Bless All. These verses have touched our life also.

For the tide recedes, but leaves behind bright seashells on the sand. The sun goes down, but gentle warmth still lingers on the land. The music stops, and yet it echoes on in sweet refrains. For every joy that passes, something beautiful remains ... may the glow of peace settle gently on each heart.

*For life is but a stopping place, a pause in what's to be, a resting place along the road, to sweet eternity. We all have different journeys, different paths along the way, We all were meant to learn some things, but never meant to stay ... Our destination is a place, far greater than we know. For some the journey's quicker, for some the journey's slow. And when the journey finally ends, we'll claim a great reward, and find an everlasting peace, together with the Lord.

Nita Clodfelter Hall was a collection of all of her years, her stories, her glories and her tears. Tales of a lifetime lived in her eyes. She was a reflection of all she knew, of people who've loved her, of kindness she showed and of all that Nita was and did. She had a connection to far away places that lived on in thoughts of good times and dear faces History will always define Nita by her gender, but we shall identify Nita by her life and friendship to us.

“ *Jane and family,
I am saddened to hear of the loss of your mother. I have fond memories of her during our days of cheering. I remember what a wonderful seamstress she was in making our uniforms one year, and what a charming hostess when we met at your home. Thinking of you and lifting the entire family in prayer.*

Nita and I worked together so well during the UNC years. Since I came to town, so to speak, I have not seen as much of her, but I have good memories. My love to all of you. Hope Davis
