“ Dear friend Otie. You survived everything an enemy could throw at you, but now, 69 years after the war this last battle was one that couldn't be won.

I will miss your friendship, your letters which were a delight to receive, and your great personality. You were my oldest, and one of the most treasured friends.

I will make sure your memory will stay alive and your name will not be forgotten. From the other side of the ocean I also want to thank you for making this world a little better. You helped us to be free again and although 69 years ago, it is not forgotten.

May you rest in peace! I wish all the best to your family. My condolences.
